

Acknowledgments

This book has been forty years in the making.

Therefore, expressing gratitude for others' invaluable input into what has emerged would require pages to list the names.

Take, for example, the myriad of strategic ministry alliances — national, international, academic, pastoral, missionary, denominational, collegiate and more — that I've enjoyed with Christian leaders from many streams of the Church. As we've labored together for the Kingdom, I've gained from them vital insights into the person of the King. Those key leaders would be on the list.

I am indebted to hundreds of Christian thinkers and theologians, down through the centuries, whose mining of Scripture coupled with their writings and teachings have enriched my Christology a thousandfold. They too would be on the list.

Beyond that, I could register the thousands from all walks of life and backgrounds with whom I've shared stimulating conversations around their vision and pursuit of the Lord Jesus for all he is. How much this has helped me view the majesty of our Savior in fresh ways is incalculable, and I am eternally grateful to them all.

So, instead of this long inventory, let me simply give recognition to four who have been directly involved in bringing this particular project to completion.

Thank you, Beth Wolsey, for bringing to bear on this book your God-given instincts, your clarity of biblical thinking, and your superb editorial craftsmanship. As a result, you have transformed the initial words of this author into a verbal portrait of Christ that is now a pleasure for all of us to read.

Thank you, Bill Sahlman, for taking your exceptional graphic skills and diligently using them to transform the book's presentation on the wonders of Christ into a visual feast. As a result, all along the way, you help us to explore and experience more of God's Son by very creative approaches.

Thank you, Dick Griggs (and through you I give thanks to the many who have served on the boards of our ministry over the decades) for your years of counsel and encouragement — not only as board chairman but, above all, as a co-laborer with me toward a Christ Awakening movement. Over and over you have kept this author going, despite significant challenges, so he could complete this volume.

But prior to these, thank you, Robyne — woman of God, servant of Christ, dearest wife and friend. From the beginning, as a way of life, you have plunged with me into intimacy with Christ in his supremacy. Declaring Romans 15:6 on our wedding day, we pledged to become one heart and one voice for the glory of the Father through the Son. And so we have. This book, therefore, represents your heart and your voice, as well as mine.

ABOVE ALL:

Thank you, Father. Because you have exalted your Son to the place of highest honor, you have given me truths of his supremacy that have formed the wondrously inexhaustible topic I've tried to write about.

Thank you, Holy Spirit. Because you've continued to magnify the greatness and glory of Jesus to me and all who belong to him, ultimately it is your vision of his supremacy today that I've sought to understand and record on these pages.

Thank you, Son of God. Because right now your supremacy remains so utterly spectacular, you embody the source and substance of everything I've attempted to describe here. However, I must declare that you truly are infinitely more priceless and precious than ten million books could ever contain.
